New York, Nov. 15.—A succession of declines and fitful rallies marked the course of today's irregular stock mar-ket, in which the familiar speculative tactics of recent weeks were again conspicuous. The first decline followed a moderately strong opening, the sec-ond occurred at midday on rumors of another marine disaster in the European war zone and the third and most effective came in the last hour, large-ly obliterating all gains. Final prices

Rails were prominent in the closing deals, chiefly because of the activity in Erle, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande issues at temporary advances of one to three points. Canada Pacific, Chicago, Northwestern and Northern Pacific were among the few elements of strength in the representative class, but these also lost much of their advantage in the later dealings. of 5.298 passengers were carried, of whom 1.905 were transported on special trains.

The total number of passengers carried to and from New Haven in connection with the Yale-Princeton game was 39,910, which compares with a total for the previous Yale-Princeton game at New Haven of 32,858, an increase for this year's travel of 7,052.

There were no michaps of any kind to mar the record made by the company in the transportation of this huge extra traffic, and the entire system ran as smoothly as clock work. Of the 45 trains, regular and special, 32 were on time and the others were but a few minutes late. Fourteen trains arrived in New Haven ahead of the schedule. The total number of minutes late of all trains arriving in New Haven during the morning of the game was 113, or an average of about 2 1-2 minutes per train. Considering the unusual congestion of traffic sesulting from the large number of special trains this regord is a remarkable one.

Some idea of the problem involved for minutes have been caused indirectly by the in dazzling effects of brilliant automobile all may be under the strate of any kind in the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamp, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamp to relate the most successful tamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamp, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may seem, at the lamps, but, strange as it may tention to the headilghts as they do to the carbureter or other parts of the car, the effect of giare could be reduced to a minimum. This neglect is excusable when one considers that few, if any, instruction books supplied with the cars contain information regarding the proper care of headlights. No great difficulties are involved in reducing the glaring effects of any lamp to the lowest point consistent with its design, however.

Every electric headlamp, consists of a parabolic reflector in which its a parabolic reflector in which is mounted an electric bulb. If the fila-ment of the bulb is placed at the "focal point" of the parabola, the light will be reflected in the form of almost parallel rays. The filaments of electric bulbs are not mathematical points, but cover a relatively large area, whereas the reflector is designed upon the theory that the source of light is merely a point. Thereafter, even with the best possible adjustment of the bulb, the light is projected at an angle depending of late there has been much speculation as to whether the Wesleyan football team would play Trinity on Nevember 20. At present Wesleyan sees no reason for cancelling this game. The two colleges have an agreement to the effect that either college loosely wound cover a considerable Fliaments of electric bulbs that are loosely wound cover a considerable area and are the ones most apt to spread the light on the road in the form of rings, while filaments of small area, such as those employed in the The enforcement of this fille will keep Kennedy and Visner, of Trinity, from taking part in the annual same this year, but Brickley will be eligible to play. Wesleyan will undoubtedly demand a revival of Trinity's rules for the future, however.

The fact that N. Y. U. and Columbia cancelled their games with Trinity has nothing to do with Wesleyan's stand, as it is expected that Trinity will live up to her contract with the Middletown college.

This enforcement of this fille will area, such as those employed in the new nitrogen bulbs, are so compact that the projected light takes the form of a small, but powerful, beam. It is advisable, therefore, when purchasing new bulbs, to see that the filament is as compactly formed as possible.

Almost all the electric headlamps have a means for focussing the bulb in or out so that the filament may be placed at the focal town college. within the reflector—in other words, moving the bulb in or out so that the filament may be placed at the focal point. This adjustment is of great importance, as by locating the bulb in its proper position the light may be directed in the best possible manner, while "shadows" or black spots in the road may thus be eliminated.

After a lamp has been properly focused it will be noticed that a con-as a result football interest drifted to other teams and other games. Now Yale is getting attention, all because Tom Shevlin has come back to Yale and Yale has come back to Yale and Yale has come back to life. Nobody expected Shevlin to whip the slovenly Yale team into a fighting machine this fall, for he had been summoned too late. But most everybody feels that if Shevlin had not responded to the cry of alarm from New Haven. Colin., Nov. 18.—Light the practice was on the programme for the game with Harvard next Saturday. Naturally Yale's supporters are enthusiastic over the wonderful defensive fight of their eleven against odds.

But the enthusiastic are not so reckless as to believe that such a desperate fight could have won against the ate fight could have won against the crimson Saturday. That would be an-swering too much. Had Harvard been playing in the bowl instead of Princemay be gained from the fact that the operatine and traffic departments of the company have been at work for weeks perfecting the plans and devising safeguards against mishaps.

> STONINGTON LOSES TO BULKELEY ON FORFEIT Dispute in Last Few Minutes of Play -Captain Mawson Takes Team Off

> The Bulkeley-Stonington game at Blant field, New London, Saturday, ended in a forfeiture of the game to the Whalers, owing to a disagreement over the referee's decision, which occurred in the very last two minutes of Hull kicked over the goal line. Connor, the Stonington quarterback, attempted to run the ball out. Lawski tackled Connor and he fumbled the ball in back of the goal. Rollo, who had been following Lawski, fell on the ball. The referee claimed the play a touchdown, while the Stonington captain could not see it as a touchdown but later claimed it a touchdown on the play. Captain Mawson claimed that the ball was dead when it passed over the goal line and that it should be put in motion on the 20 yard line, experts claim. Had not the Stonington quarterback attempted to pick up the ball the above ruling would have been carried, but under the circumstances the referee decided, the play as a touchdown in Bulkeley's favor. Mawson led his team off the field, two more minutes being left to play. Hull kicked over the goal line. Con-

The victory of Yale over Princeton tends to put an edge on the game between the Blue and Crimson, also some things that will go down on the annals of the eastern gridiron.
